

Transport and Distribution
Capability Statement

Businesses can grow, develop or manufacture goods for sale – but nothing goes anywhere without an efficient transport and distribution system.

While the movement of goods from one location to another is vital for the operation of many businesses, so is the requirement for the suppliers of those services to receive timely and effective financial information.

Our specialist knowledge and key insights into this dynamic and changeable sector means we can offer up-to-date, expert advice.

We understand the unique industry standards – and we understand the individual needs and challenges you face, including competition from large groups, fluctuating fuel prices, congested urban areas and changes in regulations and legislation.

Our transport and distribution team works with businesses to review their operations, improve efficiency and productivity and ensure compliance with the latest regulatory developments.

The 'Next' Solution

Nexia is your 'next' solution providing tailored support to help your business navigate taxation issues, regulatory compliance, financial reporting/audit and providing transactional support and advice when you need it.

Our team has the relevant and current industry experience to ensure that whether our role is as an external auditor, independent expert, or we provide an in house function as a Director, Company Secretary or Advisor, our approach is commercial and adds value.

Nexia Network

Nexia Australia is part of a global network of accountancy and consultancy firms and possesses expert knowledge of the agriculture and rural business sector.

One of our strengths is that we are a solutions-based firm that adopts a consolidated team approach to solicit solutions that can help clients grow their businesses.

We take pride in being responsive, progressive and pro-active so that clients, large or small, receive outstanding value and benefit from our extensive knowledge.

Our Services

The following are some of the great services that we can offer to our clients in the transport and distribution sector:

- Audit, accounting and tax compliance
- Budgets and cash flow forecasting
- Capital raising
- Carbon Tax advice
- Financial reporting
- Management accounting & industry benchmarking
- Mergers and acquisitions
- Risk management
- Tax planning

Nexia's specialist knowledge means we can provide up-to-date, expert advice - when you need it.

How we can help

Auditing

Our extensive experience in the transport and distribution industry means we can deliver a targeted audit that goes beyond meeting your statutory obligations, providing you with actionable insights to assist you in improving your business's performance and profitability.

Business Advisory

Asset protection is a key business issue for the transport and distribution industry and Nexia has proudly has long experience in this area.

Through consultation, our team will help you develop short and long-term plans to achieve your business goals – and we can assist with expansion plans, succession planning and the sale of your business as well.

Forensic Accounting

We have considerable experience in providing expert independent accounting services for litigation cases in the transport and distribution sector.

We have provided due diligence for the buy-side of a major suite of service stations, valuations for the purpose of minority acquisitions and sell-side assistance for a major fuel distribution business.

We also have highly developed expertise in three-way financial modelling.

Finance and Lending

Vehicles and equipment are the lifeblood of the transport and distribution industry. Our Lending and Finance experts help clients borrow funds for both purchasing and replacement.

Taxation Consulting

A number of areas of tax law are especially relevant to the transport and distribution sector. For example, you need to know about fuel tax credits and the ability to claim motor vehicle registration when it's paid, rather than later.

Understanding, or not understanding, tax deductibility can have a significant impact on your business's cash flow and tax position. Nexia ANZ helps clients maximise the benefits of the tax system by interpreting and applying tax laws and guidance correctly.

Valuations

We have considerable experience in providing valuations in the transport and distribution sector.

We've provided valuation reports for transport businesses looking to sell, admit new shareholders, restructure for taxation purposes, for family law purposes and to refinance.
